Summary of Investment Objective

The primary investment objective of the Partnership is the growth of capital. The business of the Partnership is the buying and selling of securities, including, without limitation, stocks, options, of the U.S. The Partnership may invest and trade in public and may lend funds or assets and borrow money, with and without collateral. The Partnership ordinarily will invest in securities that trade in sufficient volume to allow for swift execution of transactions. Positions in securities may be held for very short periods, even as little as a portion of one day. The Partnership may engage in transactions in exchange-listed options in conjunction with or in lieu of taking a position in the underlying securities, including writing uncovered options. The Partnership also may engage in short sales of securities and margin transactions. The Partnership shall have the power to do any and all acts necessary, appropriate, proper, advisable, incidental or convenient to or for the furtherance of the purposes and business described herein, and shall have, without limitation, any and all of the powers that may be exercised on behalf of the Partnership by the general partner.

Technology has brought the trading industry to interactive online brokerage services which enable traders to execute orders directly on the floors of U.S. Stock Exchanges, the NASDAQ StockMarket or other exchanges. The industry is making available to traders and investors interactive software that automatically and electronically selects how to route orders depending on if it is a listed stock, an OTC stock, an option, a future, a commodity, or the like. Customer orders are electronically directed to the appropriate market for execution and not directed to a third-party dealer for handling. Real-time data, 24-hour order entry, order reports, account access with real-time positions and intraday gains or losses, statistics and account balances are now available to investors and traders with sophisticated hardware, data feeds, and operating systems. Turnkey technology provides the sophisticated trader with the technology edge that is necessary for the management of a profitable trading enterprise. However, the General Partner believes that technology alone provides only the platform from which experienced and knowledgeable trader and investment managers utilize successful trading strategies. The partnership may invest and trade on margin and otherwise, long and short, in public securities and may lend funds or assets and borrow money, with and without collateral. The Partnership ordinarily will invest in Securities that trade in sufficient volume to allow for swift execution of transactions. Positions in Securities may be held for very short periods, even as little as a portion of one day. While most of the Partnership's trading will occur on established stock exchanges or other secondary markets, it from time to time may purchase new issues in initial public offerings and restricted Securities that are not publicly traded and which may have to be held for a period of time before they can be sold.

The General Partner has determined to invest the Partnership's assets according to trading signals and other technical and fundamental principles developed by the Investment Manager.

The Principals of the Investment Manager have been engaged in market research, technical systems, and the development of a proprietary trading signal system (the System) since 2018. A general description of the Systems is as follows: Equities within a group having a predetermined minimum daily volume are sorted and ranked for high momentum and relative strength during a recent period of time. Minimum rankings determine the building of a portfolio and the issuance of buy and sell signals.

Positions are held for periods of time that may vary from one day to several months while the Systems are based solely on technical factors, fundamental information, as well as market conditions and news bulletins, which may affect the General Partner's ultimate buy and sell decisions. The General Partner will use the System as a basis for portfolio management but may also use other fundamental and technical methods and strategies. Margin loans may be employed at the discretion of the general partner; however, it is the current intention of the General Partner to use such loans only occasionally and only for short periods of time when needed to maximize trading opportunities.

While the Partnership anticipates that most of its funds generally will be invested and does not generally intend to maintain substantial cash balances for long periods of time, the General Partner retains the discretion to maintain some or all of the Partnership's assets in cash or cash equivalents. To the extent the Partnership has excess funds that are not fully invested or deposited to satisfy margin requirements, such funds are expected to be held in interest-bearing money market or brokerage accounts or high-grade, short-term investments.

The General Partner may utilize research and recommendations from various brokerage firms and will use such firms for the execution of transactions in return for such services. It also may use the services of outside advisers and consultants in seeking to implement the Partnership's investment objective. From time to time, within limits deemed acceptable by the General Partner, the Partnership may make investments in restricted securities and in turnaround situations, all of which have a greater risk of illiquidity in addition to other risks.

The Partnership may utilize various investment techniques, including day trading, margining its positions, using derivative Securities, short selling, and other leveraging techniques, and, in certain situations, purchasing or selling put or call options in connection with positions in the related Securities.

The trading strategies utilized by the General Partner will be a continuous assessment of the economic environment and depend on the FED tapering, higher RATES, and CUTS to isolate both positive and negative trends in sectors and industries. The investment strategy selections will then be made on a company-by-company basis to determine optimal long or short positions. The General Partner's economic assessment and investment strategies are the result of multiple research resources, financial news services, the general and trade press, and industry research analysts.

Investment criteria include but are not limited to financial strength and stability, earnings per share analysis, growth projections for the companies, growth projections for the industry or sector, market share and/or market dominance; new products and services, debt to equity ratio, cash flow analysis and Price to book analysis. The trading strategies implemented by the General Partner will consist of primarily multiple exchange-listed securities including common stock, bonds, ETF's and options.

The Partnership's investment program will generally emphasize active management and monitoring of the Partnership's portfolio in the context of the overall market environment. In certain circumstances, the Investment Advisor may deem emphasis on capturing profits on short-term market movements to be most appropriate to achieve the Partnership's investment objectives. When in effect, this policy will result in the Partnership taking more frequent trading positions. Consequently, the Partnership's portfolio turnover and brokerage commission expenses may exceed those of most investment entities of comparable size during such periods. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is the intent of the general partner to minimize the effect of active trading by having acquired very competitive commission rates.
